

English as an Additional Language Resources

OneStopEnglish is a resource for developing English Language Skills. This will be free until the end of June 2020:

<http://www.onestopenglish.com/>

Also the EAL journal from NALDIC has lots of activities for bilingual learners including reading material in their own language <https://ealjournal.org/2020/03/20/resources-for-eal-learners-during-school-closures/>

World Stories – <https://worldstories.org.uk>

Again, free until August. Stories available in 31 languages but they have to be read (not oral). You have to turn the page just like reading a paper version.

Global Storybooks – <https://globalstorybook.net>

From Uni of British Columbia, Canada. African stories translated into many languages for all ages and family learning

Lots more resources in a blog post – <https://ealjournal.org>
